GREAT BRITAIN.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.

LONDON, August 19.

The Star has an editorial on the acquisition of Cuba by the United States, in which it says to a Cuba in the hands of great Britain, or to a Cuba in the hands of France, would be a source of annoyance, and even of danger to the United States, but the possession of Cuba by the United States, would rather add to the influence of Great Britain, and to the security of Canada. It is not to a Cuba in the hands of France, but the possession of Cuba by the United States, that we object. If the greater must possess the less, the greater the better. If the greater must be exposed to attack, or pressure, it is better that it should be the greater. It is the interests of civilization that Cuba be preserved from the misgovernment which has prevailed under Spain, and the prosperity which has been enjoyed under the United States. Cuba has enjoyed more as a dependency of a republic than as a dependency of a monarchy.

FRANCE.

La Patrie has announced its conversion to Ministerialism from France. The Queen has gone to Switzerland.

They also announce their intention to hold a conference if desired. The Dublin Prelate will meet at St. Patrick's Cathedral on the 15th of September.

IRELAND.

DUBLIN, August 19.

A meeting of the clergy of the Diocese of Dublin has been held to consider the propriety of calling a meeting of the clergy of Ireland, to consider the subject of the Irish Church and the Œcumenical Council.

LONDON, August 20.

The Times in an article on the Home Question in the French Corps Législatif says: "The Emperor Napoleon, after dissolving the Corps Législatif, will appeal to the people, and after having obtained a fresh mandate for the loss of the Roman States, will consider the settlement of his reign a complete one. He will then be ready to appear before the tribunal of God. In case, there will be no lack of opportunity for the Emperor to distinguish himself in the front rank of the Liberal Statesmen of his time."

THE HARVARD-OXFORD MATCH.
